JFK, which has been in development for several years, is by David T. Little and Royce Vavrek, the composer and lyricist behind Dog Days. JFK takes place on November 21, 1963, which President John F. Kennedy and first lady Jacqueline Kennedy spent at Fort Worth's Texas Hotel, before that fateful day in Dallas. However, the shape of the piece changed a great deal through the developmental process and the end result should be fascinating. The classic title of the 2016 season is Rossini's comedy The Barber of Seville. The third entry is in the smaller stage series, Opera Unbound, and it will be two new one-acts: Buried Alive and Embedded. Both operas are based on Edgar Allan Poe stories, A Premature Burial and the The Cask of Amontillado, respectively. JFK and The Barber of Seville will be presented in Bass Hall, and Buried Alive/Embedded will take place in the Scott Theatre at FW Community Arts Center.

The 2016 subscriptions are on sale now or you may contact your concierge to order single tickets to all performances at a 25% discount (excludes value seating). Discount will be taken off of up to (4) tickets per transaction and the $8 service fee (per order) will still apply. For more info, visit www.fwopera.org.
